The TAHP 2009 Annual Conference and Trade Show is the largest statewide event for managed care professionals. This year's event comes at a critical time amid a national health care debate and state reform efforts that could lead to dramatic changes affecting health plans, providers, and consumers.

The 2009 conference will focus on these developments, with industry experts offering their insight into where the proposed changes may lead and how they could affect today's health care system.

WHO WILL BE THERE?

The conference is specifically designed for health care executives from hospitals, health systems, integrated networks and health plans including CEOs, COOs, CFOs, Medical Directors and other top decision makers. Leadership from state agencies and legislative offices will also be present at conference events.

WHAT CAN BE LEARNED?

The conference will feature a quality line-up of health care and policy experts from across the country. Attendees will gain insight into key medical and management developments and hear about critical topics that are certain to dominate trends and public debate in the health care industry this year.

There will be updates with key information on issues that were addressed during this year's state legislative session.

Exhibitors from around the world will be there to demonstrate their latest products and services and answer questions about them.

The conference's networking opportunities offer extensive social interaction through open discussion in a stress-free setting. The relaxed and casual environment provides attendees an excellent occasion to develop new business relationships while strengthening existing ones.

WHAT CAN BE EARNED?

CME, CLE, CPE and continuing pharmaceutical education credits can be earned for health care management issues.
